William Carey College

Hattiesburg, Mississippi

FOREWORD

Time is more important to people now than it ever has been. The Twentieth Century is the Time-Conscious Age. For this reason the annual staff has chosen for the 1959 Crusader the theme: TIME.

Through the application to school life of such terms as timekeepers, clock watchers, exciting times, big moments, and creative hours, and through the use of such time symbols as the clock, the hourglass, and dates, the 1959 Crusader reminds its readers that time is a wealth which may be lost or which may be used under the direction of God for the welfare of man.

Dedication

The history of William Carey College is the history of a struggle for existence. There were years in which harbingers of doom prophesied the inevitable failure of the school; however, under the direction of God and with the support of friends and a consecrated faculty and administration, the college lived, grew, and prospered. This prosperity could not have come without a loyal faculty who accepted the tremendous responsibility that was theirs. Without the encouragement, devotion, and faith of these people, William Carey College might be only a memory today. It is with great pride and gratitude that we dedicate the 1959 Crusader to the three faculty members who have been with William Carey College almost from the beginning--Mrs. Evelyn McClure, Dr. B. Frank Smith, and Mrs. Fay Eubanks.

Mrs. Evelyn McClure has become the symbol of graciousness to all associated with Carey College. In her classes she encourages students to strive toward gracious living by applying the principles of art to everyday living. Her gracious manner is also in evidence in the social life of the campus, for she willingly devotes time and effort to the task of making such campus affairs as banquets and teas both delightful and entertaining. It is this interest in all aspects of campus social life that has caused Mrs. McClure to be called "Carey's Favorite Hostess."

Dr. B. Frank Smith is a rare combination of scholarship and wit. He is known as a stimulating lecturer, a skillful writer, and a helpful advisor. His writings often appear in publications of the Southern Baptist Convention. Also, he many times aids both ministerial students and the Convention by supplying speakers for local Baptist churches. He is always happy to use his influence for the good of all connected with the college. However, the trait for which he is best known is his own brand of dry wit, guaranteed to bring a surprised smile to the faces of harried faculty members and busy students alike.

Mrs. Fay Eubanks will always be remembered for her friendly interest in each of her students. Because she is sensitive to the difficulties of others and responsive to their needs, students always find her a sympathetic and understanding listener. Because she is sincerely concerned about both academic and personal problems of students, each one who goes to her receives encouragement and a helping hand.

In Memoriam

DR. I. E. ROUSE
1895
August 29, 1958

Dr. I. E. Rouse, a Baptist educator and leader, was President, first of Mississippi Woman's College, then William Carey College from 1946 until 1956. He took three buildings, a small group of students and a dream, and out of this laid the foundation for the William Carey of today and tomorrow. Long will Carey students and alumni remember this man and his contributions.

In Memoriam

EARLINE WARD
January 9, 1936
September 22, 1958

Earline Ward exemplified the typical Carey coed, while here on our campus. Her quick smile, quiet ways, and silent determination made her a truly great student and leader in the eyes of both the faculty and her fellow students. Earline, who was a student from 1953 until 1957, has made an indelible impression upon both the hearts and lives of all who knew her.

To the Students of Carey College:

A new chapter in Carey College history is recorded in this book of memories. Few school sessions on any campus can prove to be more exciting than the 1958-59 school year at William Carey College when nation wide and world-wide recognition came to the Carey program. William Carey College was granted full membership in the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in Louisville, Kentucky, on December 4, 1958.

Our college is now concentrating on further achievements which are possible for us in the decade which lies ahead. At the time when we have achieved a victory in the development of our academic program we are dedicating ourselves with a greater devotion to the religious and moral ideals of our college. It is our primary objective to maintain a thoroughly Christian liberal arts college and through her program to produce mature Christians, educate leaders for the denomination, and promote the practice of Christian principles.

Sincerely,

J. Ralph Noonkester

COBBLER STAFF

THE COBBLER is the organ through which the activities and opinions of the Carey College family are expressed. Receiving its name from the occupation of William Carey before he commenced his foreign missionary enterprises, the paper endeavors to match the virtues of a cobbler: accuracy, patience, initiative, perseverance, humility, pride in good workmanship. It is because of this that one administrative official remarked, "This is the most enthusiastic group on the campus."
